EDITARES BOOK CATALOGUE

2013 | 2014

The International Association of EDITARES is a third sector not-for-profit institution founded on October 23, 2004. EDITARES is entirely independent and is maintained through the work of dozens of volunteers.

Among its activities are the production, publication, distribution and dissemination of technical and scientific works in order to circulate and publicize research findings from the neuroscience of Conscientiology.

The main objective of EDITARES is the dissemination of the clarification task through the production of publications rich in conscientiological content that always seek to emancipate consciousnesses.

The publications deal with diverse Conscientiology specialties, without religious or mystical connotations, and are the result of research or specifically the author's own self-research. We are a reference in studies and surveys on the following themes, among others: psychic phenomena, near-death experience or NDE; self-research; out-of-body experience or OBE; life after death; bioenergy; clairvoyance; ectoplasmic phenomena; life projects, consensual health, and recycling of life.

The main philosophy of the institution is:

“DO NOT BELIEVE IN ANYTHING,
NOT EVEN IN INFORMATION PRESENTED
IN THE BOOKS PUBLISHED BY EDITARES.
HAVE YOUR OWN EXPERIENCES.”

TARES – or the clarification task - is an assistential activity in which the results and latest scientific studies on the development and rehabilitation of people and groups are presented, without any intention to persuade, indoctrinate or inculcate any demagogic ideology. This represents the core business EDITARES effects through the publication of books.

HETEROCRITICISM ON A USEFUL WORK

The Heterocritical Immersion on a Useful Work is an innovative course that was created by Professor Waldo Vieira in 1999. It focuses on the study, discussion and review of technical books from among the major areas of knowledge to contribute to the development of various mentalsomatic attributes and is recommended to those interested in criticism. Conscientiographic techniques are applied to the course in order to promote a conscientiometric analysis of the work, which considers the author, editor, reviewer and various other parameters of the work. Participants will never read books in the same way again.

Homo sapiens pacificus

Author: Waldo Vieira

Over 1,584 pages the author realistically and often shockingly discusses the belligerence and pacifism of consciousnesses. Vieira provides the reader with a comprehensive overview of the historical evils of war and the benefits of peace to humankind. Based on current and historical facts, the text is characterized by cosmoethical criticism, showing that war is the true mega-pest, the worst mega-virus, and that it is invariably mass murder and a frank regression of civilization.

The originality of the work is strengthened by the author's arguments that feature novel Conscientiology theories related to the topic, the so-called leading-edge relative truths (verpons). Among the new themes that deserve to be highlighted are the Ectopic Affective Syndrome, or wrong loves, and other previously unpublished content about Homo sapiens serenissimus, a theory that was originally proposed in the treatise 700 Conscientiology Experiments. According to the author, the main goal of the compendium is to show the disadvantages of war when compared to peace, or, in other words, the evolutionary losses arising from belligerence, while pointing out the ways to overcome this trait that is still present in millions of people on the planet.

Homo sapiens reurbanisatus

Author: Waldo Vieira

This treatise presents the original theory of extraphysical reurbanization and the Homo sapiens reurbanisatus, a reurbanized extraphysical consciousness (consreu). According to the author, since the last century, extraphysical reurbanization has been promoted by more evolved consciousnesses who enable the removal of consreus from unhealthy nonphysical environments, and reinserting them in the evolutionary mechanism of consecutive births and deaths, therefore allowing them to socialize with consciousness of different evolutionary levels, catalyzing the evolution of all.

Based on facts, personal experiences, and the 7,653 bibliographic references, this book presents the first positive effects of this assistential mega-undertaking, such as the scientific-technological revolution and the emergence of Conscientiology. However, it still addresses the negative consequences, even those that are temporary, such as: overpopulation, overcrowding, increased violence, crime and social insecurity. Over the course of 1,584 pages the author presents a logical, rational and surprising thesis to explain the critical stage we are currently experiencing on the planet, showing that this phenomenon is indeed a growth crisis for the group in order to transform Earth into a planet that is more of a school and less of a hospital.

700 CONSCIENCILOGIA EXPERIMENTS

Author: Waldo Vieira

As the reference work on Conscientiology, first published in 1994 and with more than 5,000 items in its bibliography, this treatise introduces the reader to the basics of the neoscience of Conscientiology. The author proposes 300 self-applied tests that deal with greatly relevant themes, such as assistantiality, the theory of the thosene (thought, sentiment and energy), the theory of existential inversion and recycling, among others that are no less important. The work presents Conscientiology as an Applied Science that studies the consciousness (ego, individual essence, spirit, soul, personality) using an integral approach that encompasses all the vehicles of manifestation (bodies), previous existences and attributes, and that deepens the content in a theoretical and practical way. This work assists the reader to understand the importance and relevance of this knowledge in their life. The Science Conscientiology takes advantage of the best of 5 main areas of human knowledge: common sense, religion, philosophy, political ideology and conventional science; but is based upon multidimensional self-experience, having consciousness as both the instrument and object of research.

ACOPLAMENTARIUM FIRST DECADE

Authors: Lilian Zolet & Guilherme Kunz (Orgs.)

This commemorative book aims to present the historical trajectory of the first decade of the Acoplamentarium, the first laboratory on this planet dedicated to in-group parapsychic experiments. Guided by the Consciential Paradigm, the Acoplamentarium represents a truly optimized environment for the development of lucid interassistential parapsychism, without any mystical, religious or dogmatic connotations. Besides honoring the people involved in creating and maintaining this innovative venture across these 10 years, the work also offers didactic explanations about the psychic phenomena produced in this lab, especially facial clairvoyance.

SELF-CONSCIOUSNESS AND MULTIDIMENSIONALITY

Author: Dulce Daou

In this book, the author invites those interested in deepening their knowledge of the human being, free from preconceived ideas that restrict critical sense, to reflect on multidimensional experiences and the resulting leaps to new evolutionary levels. It also promotes parallels between conventional science and the neoscience Conscientiology, providing explanations and logical interpretations of what used to be considered "obscure interventions" or "a matter of coincidence," results of the "creative impetus" of the brilliant minds of humankind's geniuses.

A STONE ON THE PATH

Author: Maria Theresa B. Lacerda

The author examines their family, social and professional environments, focusing on, above all, the solutions to overcome the difficulties inherent in the condition of women in the first half of the twentieth century. The text is a delightful reading with rich descriptions of parapsychic phenomena that led to a consciential model and the resulting changes due to the new posture. According to Maria Thereza Lacerda "it is important to establish our position towards life. At the same time valuing individuation, which is, according to Jung, the development of our personal uniqueness. To admit our differences, we are not obliged to follow the herd".

SELF-CURE THROUGH RECONCILIATION

Author: Málu Balona

With a clear and accessible approach, the author shows how self-reconciliation assists in overcoming low self-esteem, self-blame, resentment, grievances and frustrations, which are elements that represent major barriers to health and personal development. In the text effective techniques are proposed for effective self-reconciliation which results in, among other benefits, greater personal confidence and emotional stability. This condition favors the gradual development of openness and empathy in interpersonal relationships, increasing the possibilities of assistance, or in other words help, adjustments and corrections with other members of the group of which you coexist. With reconciliation the person adopts a participatory approach, assuming greater responsibility for life itself, since, in the words of the author, "there is no use trying to outsource self-cure".

CONSCIENTIAL AUTHENTICITY

Author: Tony Musskopf

Are we authentic with ourselves, or are we accustomed to deceiving ourselves? Are we able to discern the reality of the facts in this world of appearances? Do we establish sincere relationships with loved ones and in our social circles? Do we perceive the extraphysical realities around us or do we live deceived by the physical sensations of this material dimension? This work aims to reflect on these and other issues related to consciential authenticity, or in other words, the way we deal with intrapersonal, interpersonal, and extrapersonal reality in the face of extraphysical realities. The book is suitable for readers willing to put aside the masks, dissimulations, self-corruptions and other inauthenticities that impede consciential evolution. Through reflection and self-evaluation tests this book contributes to self-research on the cosmoethical quality of the reader's authenticity.

BARBARA REACHES THE STAR

Author: Jayme Pereira

When a young girl reports a dream in which she was flying or falling, this may not be just a dream because, while sleeping, she may be having an out-of-body experience, also known as a projection of the consciousness. When experiencing a projection, it is possible to fly, to leave and inevitably return to the physical body. Barbara's story was not invented. It was real. It happened just as described in this book. There was no fantasy, no imagination, nor was it a legend or fairy tale. It was a conscious projection, her consciousness had temporarily left her physical body. Barbara's grandfather (the author of this book) researches this phenomenon. "Every night, she keeps projecting and, from time to time, we find ourselves in the corners of the universe!", says the author.

PATHWAYS TO SELF-OVERCOMING

Author: Reinalda Fritzen

Reinalda Fritzen presents us with a biographical trajectory that is marked by deep consciential renovations. While still a young woman, the author left her family, who lived in the midst of a poor rural life in the interior of Brazil, with the ideal of helping people. Thus she plunged into the world of secluded convent life to settle her pendencies and religious ties. After leaving convent life she embraced popular assistential political movements and through the promotion of healthy self-growth crises and the experience of psychic phenomena she led her existence in new directions and to an involvement in the study of Conscientiology. The book explains the author's process of ideological maxi-dissidence, having stripped herself of the old shackles of consolation task and assistential political militancy, to embrace the clarification task, interassistential parapsychism and conscientiological volunteering. Without any pretension to convince anyone, the author exposes, without mincing words, the confrontation of her immaturities and her evolutionary bottlenecks on her way to achieving advanced levels of interassistentiality, thus helping the reader to tread their own paths to self-overcoming.

CLAIRVOYANCE THEORY AND PRACTICE

Author: Rodrigo Medeiros

This book addresses the topic of clairvoyance and has its theoretical foundations in Paraperceptiology and Projectiology. In addition, the book provides techniques that are accessible to anyone who has an interest in it. Clairvoyance is defined as the phenomenon of visual perception of present extraphysical realities. The high point of the book is the presentation of dozens of procedures and techniques for the reader to develop their clairvoyance, being either self-taught or learnt in a course environment. The approach argues that development of clairvoyance improves a person's performance in human life and serves as a tool for the evolution of consciousness.

EVOLUTIONARY COMUNICATION IN CONSCIENTIAL INTERACTIONS

Author: Ana Seno

The diverse approaches of interconsciential communication presented in this work surpass the issues of human communication by analysing the forms and influential aspects in consciential interactions through the consciential paradigm, as proposed by neuroscience called Conscientiology. Based on the results of self-research, the author makes herself a research object to expand the topic in an interdisciplinary way. She creates a dialogue with Ethology, Social Psychology, Linguistics and the Social Sciences, and proposes the neoconcept of Evolutionary Communication, founded on six communication wisdoms: to know how to listen, speak, read, write, translate and how to thosene – to simultaneously think (thought), feel (sentiment), and act (the use of energy). The work decisively contributes to all those interested in the evolution of the attribute of communicability, to lead the reader to reflections on the ways of verbal, nonverbal, written, energetic and parapsychic self-expression in consciential interactions. The author proposes creative solutions for accelerating self-evolutionary dynamics, through self-reflection, rationality, self-discernment, self and hetero-perception, which alone allows the cosmoethical exercise of interassistentiality in all its magnitude.

CONSCIOUSNESS IN REVOLUTION

Author: Rosemary Salles

The reader has in their hands a valuable book, a manual of Parapoliticology with novel approaches regarding the individual's relationship with politics. It shows the trajectory of the author with the expansion of lucidity and personal approaches, leaving partisanship in pursuit of experienced universalism. The author exposes her life story and personal transformations, from party-based and social militancy, through to existential crises until she reaches Conscientiology. Throughout the text, the reader observes changes in the author's desire to transform society through class-conflict, to self-awareness that this transformation occurs based on the intimate renewal of each individual. The most important revolution is not the one that occurs with social groups and States, but one that occurs in the intimate universe of consciousnesses through existential recycling.

COUNTERPOINTS OF PARAPSYCHISM

Author: Cirleine Couto

Parapsychism (or simply psychism), also known as paranormality or extrasensory perception, is inherent in all consciousnesses, regardless of whether they admit it or not. The development of parapsychism intertwines dimensions, better enabling communication between consciousnesses, whether they are in a human life or in the extraphysical dimension having discarded the physical body. In this work, the author explains her self-experimentations using the technique of contrasts or counterpoints and explains healthy and unhealthy conditions when employing parapsychism. Moreover, she indicates solutions and therapies for the problems, enigmas and predicaments of this complex area of human cognition, which remains scarcely scientifically explored.

COURAGE TO EVOLVE

Author: Luciano Vicenzi

This book, geared for both the lay public and for veteran Conscientiology researchers, is about evolutionary courage. The author analyzes the human and extraphysical factors that influence personal decision-making. Using an accessible approach the author shows that our present-future is built on personal efforts, and a lack of courage to take the reins of evolution which makes people prefer to dream about a favorable event of destiny rather than face reality. The courage to challenge paradigms in search of creative solutions, when based on open and logical reasoning, is the essence of the scientific spirit. Without intelligence and courage, there is no evolution.

PARAPSYCHIC GROUP DYNAMICS

Authors: Moacir Gonçalves e Rosemary Salles

Parapsychic Group Dynamics are regular activities for bioenergetic practices, developed in an energetic environment suited to developing lucid parapsychism and multidimensional interassistential theorice (theory + practice), which take place at the CEAEC campus (Center for the Higher Studies of Conscientiology) in Foz do Iguaçu, Brazil. The Parapsychic Group Dynamics directly and objectively reveal the bioenergetic experiments performed, filling a unique didactic gap in the area. Sharing specific detailed and illustrated techniques, together with the richness and accuracy of the reports of the researcher's multidimensional experiences, completes the experience of the clarification task and the relevance of the work to the intermissivist participants engaged in the parapsychic development, and to all those interested in the lucid self-evolution proposed by Conscientiology.

EFFECTIVE HYPERACTIVITY

Author: Graça Razera

The author begins the book with a presentation of Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder in children (ADHD), exposing statistics, contributions and opinions from several Psychology and Psychiatry researchers to highlight the current knowledge of these sciences about the syndrome. The work is remarkable because of the author's personal example, as a carrier of the syndrome. In the second part of the book the approach to the pathology is deepened and focused using the consensual paradigm, showing how hyperactivity can become effective in different contexts. This book is clearly written in a relaxed style, and is full of personal experiences. It is didactic regarding the elucidation of hyperactivity, showing examples and stories that illustrate the reality of those who suffer from this disorder and that, with self-motivation and organization, anyone can become an effective hyperactive.

EVOLUTIONARY DUO MANUAL

Author: Waldo Vieira

In this book, the reader finds the basics of the evolutionary duo technique: a new concept in altruistic relationships between two, in which partners join efforts so that, starting from an affective and sexual life, they may expand assistance to other consciousnesses. The formation of a duo such as this, in which one plus one is more than two, beyond being a challenge, is a valuable opportunity for the interested couple to catalyze interassistentiality and evolution itself. Based on the discernment of the two partners, without romantic idealizations and myths like "soul-mate" or the "prince charming", the manual proposes techniques to fuel the evolution of partners, achieved through the construction of a relationship based on the binomial admiration-disagreement and harmonious conviviality, in which the affective relationship becomes a bridge to wider maxifraternity.

EXISTENTIAL INVERSION

Authors: Alexandre Nonato, Alexandre Zaslavsky, Filipe Colpo, Flávio Amaral e Sílvia Muradás.

Existential inversion is one of the life strategies that can be used by a person who recognizes, since their youth, that they have a mission or life program to accomplish in this human life. This is called an existential program and is based on assistance to others and personal evolution. This assistance transcends the familiar and professional context, and also the consolation task. Seeking to improve oneself, the existential inverter is a clarifying example to others, starting with the strength of his/her presence, and developed naturally from healthy priorities.

EXISTENTIAL PROGRAM MANUAL

Author: Waldo Vieira

The Existential Program Manual is a detailed practical study on the process of planning, identifying and executing one's existential program (proexis), also known as life project or existential mission. The fulfillment of the proexis is among the greatest achievements one can aim for in a human life. Millions of people feel they have something to accomplish, a task that many, only unconsciously, identify and follow. With a more technical approach, the life program can and should be consciously identified and executed by the person, promoting more effective and comprehensive results. The Existential Program Manual is a demystifying reference work and is indispensable for those who wish to assess their real condition in relation to the existential targets assumed before being born again in this dimension, when the plans for the current human life were outlined.

In a clear and didactic approach, this manual presents techniques and methodologies that facilitate the creation of entries for the Encyclopedia of Conscientiology. For this reason it is primarily dedicated to anyone interested in participating in this group mega undertaking, that is based on researching consciousness from a multidimensional perspective. TO CHANGE OR... TO CHANGE

Author: Flavia Guzzi

A book-declaration in which the author expounds on the profound experiences of existential renovation that she has passed through. The stories form a portrait of the author and the different moments and transformations she has experienced that changed her way of looking at life. Her sincere exposure and determined attitude in pursuit of existential recycling generate a positive impact in the reader. It also helps those going through phases of anguish, melancholy, and a lack of direction in life, or those who wish to renew and expand the boundaries of their own existence. EVOLUTIONARY PROACTIVITY FROM THE PERSPECTIVE OF SELF-CONSCIENTIOTHERAPY

Author: Cesar Machado

This work, written by the physician and conscienthiotherapist Cesar Machado, anatomizes the strong trait of Evolutionary Proactivity and explains why this attribute is located in the very core of Conscienthiotherapy. The book offers real therapeutic perspectives for those who seek consencial renovation, putting aside the retrograde condition of a resigned patient and assuming the lucid role of a self-sufficient “evoluent”. The author provides us with a detailed overview of each stage of Conscienthiotherapy, which is directed to those interested in leaving their comfort zone, overcoming existential sameness, and paralyzing complacency in order to assume the interassistential self-responsibilities that arise throughout life. This book, which is rich in technical approaches while simultaneously didactic in the presentation of ideas, clarifies two profiles: an “idle” consciousness versus a “proactive” consciousness, providing benefits for the readers’ self-research through a range of conscienthimetric assessments.

PROPHYLAXIS OF CONSCIENTIAL MANIPULATIONS

Author: Mabel Teles

Respect for freedom of choice, thought and positioning is one of the most challenging attitudes in the context of healthy and cosmoethical conviviality. Manipulation, a fissure in the character that often surreptitiously manifests in the consciousness, leads to group bonds that restrict freedom, even in contexts predisposed to evolutionary partnerships and to the development of assistential work in-group. Analyzing from subtle contexts to explicit examples in contemporary society, the author presents reflections, information and clarification to all those interested in recycling this trace reminiscent of our animal nature. It is an essential reading for researchers in Conscienciology, Psychology, Politicology and Sociology.

RETROCOGNITIONS AN INVESTIGATION INTO MEMORIES OF PAST LIVES AND THE PERIODS BETWEEN LIVES

Author: Wagner Alegretti

The author comprehensively presents the mechanisms involved in the recall of past-lives and the period between lives, and provides techniques to recover these memories. He discusses the benefits and care needed in the different types of retrocognitions: forced, spontaneous or voluntary; and highlights factors that predispose or inhibit such experiences. The book explains how retrocognitions enable the identification of past mistakes, allowing one to avoid repeating them in the present life. Thus, it shows that this experience can be an important means of accessing our personal multimillennial reality, and the work aims to optimize our evolutionary performance in the current existence, as a result of the increased lucidity and self-knowledge that retrocognitions can provide.

PROJECTIONS OF THE CONSCIOUSNESS DIARY OF OUT-OF-BODY EXPERIENCES

Author: Waldo Vieira

To contribute to the formation of candidates for travelers outside the human body, this practical and descriptive book – with more objectivity and less literature – was written, composed of technical reports with 60 lucid projections, selected among those that occurred during nonconsecutive nights in the second half of 1979. Emphasis was placed on those experiences that have put the greatest elements of evidence or clarification of multidimensionality.
