

Supported by

Reflections on World State

Prof. Rafael Seidel

- ▶ The following ideas are presented considering the point of view of the consciential paradigm and the disbelief principle.

Goals

- ▶ To address the concept of World State and share ideas on the theme;
- ▶ To promote a debate among the participants

What does a State mean?

- ▶ A state may be defined as a type of polity that is an organized political community living under a single system of government;
- ▶ The State is a human creation destined to maintain the peaceful coexistence of individuals, the social order, so that human beings can develop and provide the welfare to all society.

- ▶ Population;
- ▶ Territory;
- ▶ Sovereignty

International System of States

- ▶ 1648 Peace of Westphalia (Westfälischer Friede);
- ▶ a series of peace treaties signed within May and October 1648 in the Westphalian cities of Osnabrück and Münster, effectively ending the European wars of religion;

- ▶ New system of political order in central Europe, later named Westphalian sovereignty, based upon the concept of co-existing sovereign states;

What does a World State mean?

A concept for a World State

- ▶ “It is the policy of universalist interchange, integration and cooperation among nations possible due to technological advances being inevitable the consensus or gradual homogenization of the laws governing this regime, respecting the individual or cultural rights of a given population” (Vieira, Waldo. Homo Sapiens Reurbanisatus, 2004)

- ▶ Universalist integration and cooperation among nations;
- ▶ Technological advances;
- ▶ Consensus;
- ▶ Respect;

- ▶ “(...)Convergence of all nations into a consensual system of universal, peaceful, democratic, humanizing government resulting from the evolution of human societies” (Pereira, Jayme, Princípios do Estado Mundial Cosmoético, p.141)

- ▶ Which are the current evidences and signals of a future World State?

- ▶ The foundation of the United Nations;
- ▶ Regional blocs of countries (trade blocs);
- ▶ New communication technologies;
- ▶ Space exploration;
- ▶ Reurbanization.

A State of Lucidity

- ▶ The concept of World State implies not only a concept of political State but a concept of Consciential State (Lucidity State);
- ▶ The World State implies an increase in the lucidity of the general population;

- ▶ What is the role of Conscientiology as a science in the formation of a World State?

▶ Which are the contributions of intermissivists in the formation of a World State?

- ▶ What can realistically be done today for supporting the World State?

▶ Thank you!

▶ rafaelseidel11@hotmail.com

